AT REST

The President Passed Away at 2:15.

Rallied Friday, But a Second Relapse Followed as Night Approached.

Every Effort Made to Save the Nation's Chief Magistrate, But His Brave Struggle Closed

AS THE DAY BEGAN TO DAWN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., SEPT. 14, 3
A. M.—PRESIDENT McKinley
DIED AT A QUARTER PAST 2 O'CLOCK.

Milburn House, Sept. 13—5:55 p. m.—The president's physicians report that his condition is grave at this hour. He is suffering from great prostration. Oxygen is being given. He responds to stimulants poorly. Pulse, 125; respiration, 40.—George B. Cordeyou, Secretary to the President.

Milburn House, 6:30 p. m.—It was announced that the president did not respond to the oxygen, and his physicians said that unless he responds to the stimulation his death was a matter of only a short time.

Milburn House, 6:57 p. m.—A messenger from the house announced that the president was still alive, but that there was no hope.

Milburn House, 7:06 p. m.—The president is unquestionably dying.

Relatives of the dying president and most of his cabinet and friends in the house are taking their final leave of him. The party assembled in the main drawing room, and one by one they ascended to the sick room. The scene is painful, and the silence is broken only by sobs. In the street an awestricken crowds awaits the coming of death. The situation has developed into one of mere waiting for the announcement of the president's death.

The president became unconscious at 6:40 and at 7:40 was barely alive.

Under the effects of stimulants the president revived at 7:50 and called for Mrs. McKinley. She was taken to him immediately.

"The president has not 20 minutes more to live," was the announcement from the Milburn house at 8 p. m.

ANXIETY AND ANGUISH.

Record of the Last Day's Vigil Friday at the President's Bedside.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Buffalo papers all had extras announcing the president's relapse, on the streets at daylight. One paper announced that the While they were talking together Colonel W. C. Brown of New York and Lieutenant McKinley came out of the house and after a hurried conference with Abner McKinley, they hastened to the Lenox, the hotel at which Mrs. Abner McKinley and Secretaries Wilson and Hitchcock are staying.

Dr. Park did not reach the house until 8:45, being the last physician to arrive for the morning consultation. At 8:50, while the consultation was going on inside, an old woman who was plainly a crank, approached the inner rope and insisted upon being admitted. She said she desired to see Mrs. McKinley. "I have something important to say to her," she said. One of the secret service men led her aside and listened to her long story of how she proposed to cure the president by means of herbs and prayers.

A stream of callers began arriving early. All callers were met at the door by Mr. Milburn, who informed them that the president had rallied fairly well.

Secretaries Hitchcock and Wilson, who left the house at 5 a. m., returned at 8:20. They stopped on the lawn to speak to Abner McKinley before entering the house.

Early Morning Scene.

At 9:30, the scene about the Milburn residence was one that will live in the memory of those who witnessed it as long as life lasts. Down the streets in every direction people were massed hundreds deep, while at the corner where the headquarters of the press are located, correspondents of all the leading journals of the world were waiting ready to flash the first news far as the wires reach. In front of the residence the blue-coated soldiers paced with arms at right shoulder. All were waiting almost breathlessly for the news. The physicians finished their consultation at 9:40. They left the house together and stopped for a few minutes on the lawn to convey their verdict first to the president's brother. The physicians looked serious as they walked away from the residence. Drs. Mann and Mynter came away together. "We are very anxious," said Dr. Mann.

"Have you given up hope?"

"By no means," he replied.

"Is he better than when you saw him last?"

"He is better than he was in the early hours of the morning," he responded.

Dr. Mynter had little encouragement to offer. "I am not thoroughly without hope," said he. "The president has a fighting chance, but I would be more hopeful if the day were passed and he had gained a little strength. He has improved some since early morning, but the improvement is very slight. The trouble lies with his heart. We are stimulating it and our treatment has been fairly successful."

Dr. Mynter admitted that saline solution and other means to keep the action of the heart were being administered.

"Do you still have hope of saving the president's life?" Dr. Mynter was asked.

"I will say in answer to your question," replied Dr. Mynter, hesitatingly, "that I do not consider the case absolutely hopeless. I should be more hopeful if the day were passed and it had shown some improvement in his condition."

Dr. Mynter's remarks left the inference that the crisis might be prolonged.

First Morning Bulletin.

The official bulletin issued by the physicians at 9 a. m. read as follows: "The president's condition has somewhat improved during the past few hours. There is a better response to stimulation. He is conscious and free from pain. Pulse 128, temperature 99.8."

The bulletin was slightly reassuring, but his pulse was up to 128 and the conviction grew that it was almost a forlorn hope. It was learned that the physicians had decided that it would not be well for Mrs. McKinley to enter the sick room, both on account of her feeble health and the excitement it might cause the president. So far as can be learned, Mrs. McKinley had not been informed up to 10 o'clock of the grave condition of her husband.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the intimate friends and relatives of the president who were telegraphed for began to arrive and there assembled in the down stairs rooms of the Milburn house Senator Hanna, Senator Fairbanks, former Secretary of State Day, Secretary Wilson and Secretary Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Baer, Abner McKinley, Miss Helen McKinley and Mrs. J. T. Duncan, sisters of the president, and Mrs. Lafayette McWilliams, in addition to John G. Milburn, former Postmaster General Bissell, John N. Scatcherd, of Buffalo, and Congressman Alexander of the Buffalo district.

Senator Hanna came on a special train from Cleveland, accompanied by Mrs. Hanna, Colonel Myron T. Herrick, Miss Barber and a few other friends of the president. He received the news at 4 a. m. and immediately ordered a special train.

All the cabinet officers were summoned at 3 a. m. Dr. W. W. Johnston of Washington, who is at Portsmouth, N. H., and Dr. Janeway of New York, both celebrated heart specialists were summoned. A celebrated heart specialist who has been watching the bulletins closely, expressed the opinion that the extreme weakness of the heart was due to the shock of the first bullet, which struck the president's breastbone and had now manifested itself for the first time.

The Rev. Dr. Corwin Wilson, who was once pastor of First Methodist church, Canton, O., where the president attended, was among those who called at the house during the morning. When he left he said: "Yes, there is hope for the president. His brother tells me he is making the supreme fight of his life. I feel most deeply for the president, for at Canton in by-gone days I was his pastor, and truly know his noble character."

Secretary Hitchcock was heartbroken by the sudden dashing down of the high hopes he had held of the president's recovery. "I refuse to surrender," said he, with great emotion at 10:30. "I will not give up hope while life remains. I shall hope on and pray on to the end."

Vice President Roosevelt was heard from shortly after 10 a. m. He had received the news of the president's serious condition and sent word from the Tahowus club in the Adirondacks, where he was staying, that he would come at once. He would stop at Albany for news and there determine his future movement.

Congressman Alexander, at 10:45, gave the most encouraging news of the morning. He said: "It is not true that the physicians are without hope or that those gathered in the house are despondent. The lowering of the heart action is a natural result of the giving of a cathartic and was expected. It was found that the solid food given Thursady has not passed through the stomach and that a cathartic would have to be given. Then came the reaction. The physicians gave a saline solution but in very small quantities and used some digitalis, but also in small quantities. They did not want to use any more artificial means than absolutely necessary. The results so far are good and the president is sleeping, watched by Drs. Rixey, Park and Stockton. In other respects the president is doing well."

The president continued perfectly conscious despite his extreme weakness. When the physicians sought to adjust the pillows so as to shut off the light of the window, the president protested. "No, I want to see the trees," he murmured, "they are so beautiful."

The physicians believe he fully realized how low he was, although he has not been informed. When Mrs. McKinley was told during the forenoon that it would be better for her not to see him she assented without protest, but she seemed to realize the full import of the request, though she said nothing.

At 11 o'clock the attending physicians decided to stop the use of the saline injections as the patient had begun to revive from the extreme depression. It was deemed wise to withhold the saline solution for a possible subsequent sinking spell. The quantity of digitalis was also diminished to ascertain if the president's heart could do without stimulants.

Toward 1 o'clock the physicians began to hope that if the president could be carried through the night there would be a chance for his ultimate recovery. The administration of nourishment was practically discontinued.

At 1:30 o'clock the president was still asleep and the heart action was sufficiently strong to justify the physicians in not awakening him for treatment. Up to that hour no other treatment except saline solution injections and digitalis had been administered. The physicians practically agreed that the test would come at night and they hoped to be able to bring him through that critical period.

At 2:20 Representative Alexander, who had just come from the Milburn residence, said the president slept an hour and a half, and that he rested like a child. Colonel Alexander denounced as untrue a report circulated that the president was in a dying stupor. Colonel Alexander said the president when awake was perfectly conscious. He said Mrs. McKinley was still ignorant of the change in the president's condition, although she had seen him shortly before noon for a short time.

Afternoon Bulletin.

The official bulletin issued by the president's physicians at 2:30 p. m. said: "The president has more than held his own since morning and his condition justifies the expectation of further improvement. He is better than yesterday at this time. Pulse 123; temperature 99.4."

The lowering of the pulse to 123 was considered the most encouraging feature of the afternoon bulletin, but the statement that he was better than "at the same hour yesterday" necessitated an explanation in view of the extremely serious and dangerous condition of the president. The explanation given was that the accumulation of undigested food in the stomach had at that time become as rank as ptomaine and that a bolus of calomel and oil had to be given. It was exceedingly drastic. When the relief came exhaustion followed.

Dr. Mynter was the first physician to leave the afternoon conference and he seemed more hopeful than earlier in the day. To the newspaper men he said: "The president is somewhat improved and the prospect is more hopeful. He is taking some nourishment including clara broth. There is no danger that he will starve to death. Six days is not long, and now very little food does him. I feel better about the case."

"The main trouble is the heart, isn't it?"

"Yes, the heart." "What would you say was the exact trouble with the heart?"

"If anybody should ask you," he replied, "tell them that I would say nothing."

"Is there organic trouble with the heart?"

"None that we could discover."

"Is there any idea that the bullet was poisoned?"

"Absolutely none."

COIL OF FUSE FOUND.

Wolcizynski Had It Hidden at His Home in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Sept. 13.—In a frame building on Broadway, the Cleveland detectives have discovered evidence which, while not tending to prove the existence of an anarchist plot against President McKinley, will probably serve to hold one of the men who was arrested in Chicago.

As soon as information was received here of the arrest of Edmund Wolcizynski of this city in Chicago, detectives searched the house in which he lived at No. 1870 Broadway. They found stored away on top of a cupboard 50 feet of fuse, such as is ordinarily used in the manufacture of dynamite bombs. The information was at once telegraphed to the Chicago authorities.

Wolcizynski, while in this city, was employed as a writer on a Polish newspaper known as the Star.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Edmund Wolcizynski, in whose house in Cleveland 50 feet of fuse is said to have been found, is at liberty in this city. Chief O'Neill said he doubted the importance of the find, but if Wolcizynski should be wanted he could be arrested within 20 minutes.

Davitt Down on Anarchy.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Michael Davitt, the Irish Nationalist who resigned his seat in the British parliament on account of the Boer war, has arrived in this city en route to Cape May, where he intends to rest a few days. In an interview Mr. Davitt reiterated his previously expressed opinion that the power of the British government is broken in South Africa. Mr. Davitt also said: "In all discussions of revolutionary movement or agitation, I have made no expression which could be construed to favor assassination or anarchy. The very word anarchy is a negation of all that makes for ultimate good."

Czolgosz Says Nothing New.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—William G. Bull, superintendent of police, called at the Milburn house to inquire as to the condition of the president. The superintendent said there is absolutely nothing new at headquarters except that every precaution is being taken to meet a crisis should one arise. The superintendent announced that it seemed practically certain Emma Goldman could not be held on any evidence possessed by the authorities here. Czolgosz has made no new statements or confessions and maintains a demeanor of stolid indifference and nonchalance.

Herr Most Arraigned.

New York, Sept. 13.—John Most, who was arrested on the charge of circulating incendiary literature calculated to incite unlawful acts, was arraigned in police court. At the prisoner's request his examination was set for Monday, September 16. The assistant district attorney asked that Most be held in $2,500 bail, but the magistrate said the prisoner was only charged with a misdemeanor and fixed the bail at $1,000. Most was locked up in default of bail.

Habeas Corpus Cases.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—The anarchist habeas corpus case was postponed until 10 o'clock Saturday morning, no decision being given on any of the points raised during the hearing.

Son of Kruger Surrendered.

London, Sept. 13.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, announced that C. Kruger, a son of the former president of the Transvaal and Captain Ferreira have surrendered.

Governor Beckham commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Holly Stouton for murder of Newton Searcy at Lawrenceburg, Ky.

THE PRESIDENT'S DEATH.

Every patriotic citizen of the United States is in mourning to-day for President McKinley, who lies cold in death at the Milburn home at Buffalo, N. Y., as a result of the wounds inflicted a week ago by Assassin Czolgosz. The end came at a quarter past 2 o'clock this morning. The world was in a measure prepared for the sad announcement, for after the sudden relapse on Thursday evening the worst was feared. The bulletins Friday forenoon and afternoon gave some encouragement, it is true, but a second relapse occurred as night approached and the condition of the distinguished patient, who had made such a brave struggle, soon became so extremely critical that all who kept in touch with the news realized that that struggle was a hopeless one.

Reports reached Maysville as early as 6 o'clock last evening that the President was dead, but this was shortly denied. Again at 11 o'clock it was announced he was dead, and the bells of the city were tolled, but the Western Union bulletin this morning shows that he lingered until 2:15 o'clock this morning.

And now while the Nation bows in grief at the bier of the dead President, the sympathy of the world goes out to his beloved companion,—to her who was so dear to him, and who is so grievously bereft by his death.

THERE is a mousing disposition to criticise surgeons who took optimistical views of President McKinley's case. But it must be remembered that, as a rule, every physician's views in such matters are the reflection of his own experience. Success does not sit on its haunches and howl. Probably no two men in this country have seen and successfully treated more desperate cases in abdominal surgery than Doctor McBurney, of New York, and Dr. Arthur Johnstone, the medical editor of the "Times-Star." Their prognostics in the McKinley case, though properly guarded, rested upon actual experience, and were therefore hopeful throughout. A doctor who insistently prognosticates ill, is very apt to realize what he predicts. Where a trifling may turn the scale, cheerful prognostication is better than a mess of antiseptic rot.

Stood Death Off.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave-digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels; cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50c. at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store.

COL. GEO. W. BAIN.

The Noted Orator to Speak at Y. M. C. A. Anniversary To-morrow Night at First Presbyterian Church.

The announcement that Col. Geo. W. Bain, the noted lecturer, will speak at the anniversary of the local Y. M. C. A. to-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock will undoubtedly attract an immense audience to that house of worship. The admission will be free and the public are cordially invited. A special invitation is extended to young men.

As usual on the Y. M. C. A. anniversary, the churches will unite in the services.

The officers and all members of the Y. M. C. A. are requested to meet at the association rooms at 6:45 Sunday and march in a body to the church. It is hoped that all will comply with this request and be on hand promptly.

The reception at the association rooms last evening in honor of the new General Secretary Mr. Pilkington and his wife was a very enjoyable event. President Cochran, assisted by other members of the Board of Directors, had charge of affairs. Rev. W. F. Taylor delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to very feelingly by Mr. Pilkington. Rev. F. W. Harrop, who so successfully conducted the affairs of the association during the past summer, was then called forward, and in a very few happy remarks, delivered in his own inimitable way, presented an elegant bound copy of the Scriptures to Mr. C. P. Traxel as a gift from the association on the eve of his departure for the Y. M. C. A. training school at Chicago. Mr. Traxel has been actively identified with the association from its start in this city as a member and director, and Mr. Harrop paid him a deserved tribute for the zealous manner in which he had labored at all times to build up the association. Mr. Traxel now feels that he is called to devote his life to the work, and the members while regretting to lose him are glad one of their members is to give his future efforts to such a grand work. Mr. Traxel responded briefly, accepting the gift and asked the prayers of the association.

A short musical program was now rendered, embracing selections by Miss Lida Berry, pianist, Prof. Bullette, violinist, Mrs. Geo. W. Bruce, pianist, and Miss Edith Berry and Dr. Smoot, vocalists. It is not necessary to say the music was a most enjoyable feature of the evening. Rarely have these accomplished musicians been heard to better advantage. All had to respond to encores. The rest of the evening was spent in social intercourse, Mr. and Mrs. Pilkington receiving a most cordial welcome from all who had the pleasure of meeting them.

Light refreshments were served during the evening by the ladies of the association.

It was a large and appreciative audience which greeted the Spooner Dramatic Company last evening upon the occasion of their presentation of "The Pride of the Market," a three act comedy drama written especially for Miss Spooner, and peculiarly adapted to her own particular style. In it both she and Mr. Spooner had ample opportunity for proving themselves all that is claimed for them. The specialties were exceptionally fine and were received in a most enthusiastic manner. To-night the company closes with "The Lawyer's Wedding," a farce comedy which no one should miss. Ladies 15 cents, as before. Don't forget the grand family matinee this afternoon at 2:30. Prices 10 and 20 cents. No reserved seats.

A STORY OF OLD KENTUCKY.

Review by a Local Writer of "Julette," Lucy Cleaver McElroy's Interesting Novel.

We take from the September number of "The Publications of the Southern History Association," (Washington, D. C.), the following review.

"Julette. A story of old Kentucky." By Lucy Cleaver McElroy, New York: Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., 1901, $1.00, pp. 280, illus., cloth.

If one desired additional and decisive proof of the skill of the Kentuckian as a raconteur, he would find it in every page of this delightful book. It is not one story, but many stories ingeniously linked in the telling and each contributing to the development of the plot. The author of "Julette" tells her story with a masculine vigor of expression and a practiced firmness of touch, that, but for the frank avowal of the title page, might leave some doubt as to the gifted writer's sex.

Many years before the opening of our great Civil War, Edgar A. Poe made reference in one of his private letters to the wealth of literary culture lying perdu and utterly passive in the plantations of the South. It would seem that, in the State of Kentucky, this lurking and long-suppressed aptitude for literary expression has been notably developed by events. What Mr. Fox has done for the "Mountains;" what Mr. Allen and Miss Higbee and Miss Kinkead have done for the "Blue Grass;" the accomplished author of "Julette" has done for the long-neglected "Pennyville." It is a story aglow with life and racy of the soil. As bits of thrilling or affecting description, the rescue of the grey mare by Buddy, the wreck of Al. Singue's cabin by the midnight flood, and the death of young Tom Morgan and the great partisan leader's wild agony of grief, are passages hard to match in the pages of modern romance. Here are scenes and situations which only a born story-teller—apt in word-craft by instinct and by art—could vividly and sympathetically reproduce; and, as we follow these fascinating pages, reflecting, as in a mirror, the salient characteristics of the strange environment, our memory reverts to an old-time summer outing with congenial friends in that quaint, provincial region of mystery and charm—a land of soft sunshine, of broad and fertile ranges; of noble woodlands; of soft-flowing waters; of dewy meadows; of fields of maize and gardens of fruits and flowers; of great silent streams mirroring the slow raft or the swift canoe; of strange relics of vanished races known only by their entombed remains; of mighty caverns patiently wrought by crude cosmic agencies into chambers and corridors of sculpturesque finish and grace; of mysterious rivers, untouched by human traffic, flowing ceaselessly in subterranean silence, like Alph, the sacred river, "down to a sunless sea."

It is here—in this weird, sequestered nook of the mighty world—that the scene of this strange romance is laid. The central figure of the story is the subtle, audacious, amber-eyed "Julette." There is a fascinating touch of diablerie in her character and disposition which curiously accords with the unique setting in which she is placed, and imparts a sinister interest to every page of the absorbing tale.

The will of the late John M. Harbeson, of Augusta, was admitted to probate at Brooksville this week. His wife and son are made executrix and executor.

Col. Boone of "Black Diamond" memory says he has franchise to build fourteen-and-a-half miles of electric road in the city of Zanesville and 126 miles radiating from the city to Columbus, Mt. Vernon, Newark, Coshocton, Cambridge, Caldwell, McConnellsburg, New Lexington and Lancaster. He also says he has the money promised by one of the biggest trust companies in the East to put the work through.

The County Election Commissioners must meet not later than September 20th and appoint for each election precinct in the county two judges, one clerk and one sheriff to serve as such in their precincts. The County Executive Committees of the two political parties may on or before Sept. 15th designate in writing for each precinct a list of not less than eight names, from which the officers of the election must be elected, one judge must be selected from each list and the sheriff from one and the clerk from the other. The County Commissioners may qualify at any time by taking oath before the County Clerk.

The Jessamine Journal says a radical change was made in the city schools of Nicholasville by the Board of Education. In the future, instead of Saturday being a holiday, Monday will take its place, and Saturday is made a school day. The system has been tried in several towns in Kentucky, and it is said works with success. The reason for the change is said to be the children will have Monday for study, when they would not use the Sabbath for that purpose, and therefore, under this system, they will know their lessons on the first school day of the week, when under the old system, it is claimed, nine-tenths of them made failures.

PROP'S OF BEE HIVE.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Peter McCabe, of the Fifth Ward, Struck by a Train Friday Afternoon and Seriously Injured.

Mr. Peter McCabe, aged about seventy, living on the south side of Third street, between Commerce and Poplar, Fifth ward, had a very narrow escape from death Friday afternoon.

Mr. McCabe is partially deaf and had been cautioned by members of his family to keep off the C. and O. tracks. Just before the westbound accommodation train was due Friday afternoon he started out from his home and was walking west on the south track of the C. and O. When near the plank crossing at Bruce alley, he heard the train coming and, thinking it was on the south track, he ran to the crossing and started to the north side of the road.

When nearly off the road the steps of the baggage coach struck him, breaking his right leg about half way between the knee and thigh. His back and head were also bruised but his most serious injury it is thought is the fracture of the leg.

The injured man was removed to his home where Dr. Reed, the company's local surgeon, set the fracture. Mr. McCabe rested fairly well last night. His advanced age renders the injury all the more serious.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25 cents per box. Sold by J. Jas. Wood & Son.

Mr. W. J. Mularky is recovering from a dislocated shoulder.

Millard Deatly, formerly of this city, was badly injured at Portsmouth this week.

Gay and giddy Mr. Price, aged eighty, wedded Miss Lena Preston, aged twenty, at Junction City.

Evangelist Biederwolf begins a protracted meeting at Flemingsburg Presbyterian Church Sept. 19th.

Rev. Bela Metcalfe is engaged in a successful meeting with the church at Johnstown, Bracken County.

Masterson & Clinger, proprietors of the Dover brick plant, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Masterson retiring.

Mr. George Clephane, of Aberdeen, is now on the road for the Bee Hive. He left Thursday to tour Eastern Kentucky.

Positively the best cut yellow poplar shingles on earth. Samples at R. A. Carr's and Limestone Mill, Maysville. Address, D. G. Wilson, Orangeburg, Ky.

You want to be right up in G if you are an Elk, and get one of those handsome pins and charms on sale at Ballenger's. Great variety, ranging from $1 to $80.

Mrs. J. C. Sutton, of Aberdeen, is very low with dropsical trouble, and her death is expected at any moment. Mrs. Sutton is a sister of Mr. J. Frank Ellis of the Bee Hive, this city.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—Preaching to-morrow morning at 10:45 o'clock by the minister. Subject, "The Kingdom of Heaven." No service at night on account of the Y. M. C. A. anniversary at First Presbyterian Church. Sunday school at 9:30 a.m.

—Mr. William M. Doyas, official interpreter of Polish and Bohemian languages in the United States immigration office at Baltimore, and himself a Pole by birth, says that the name of the President's assassin should be pronounced "Choal-gosh."

"The word is derived from a Polish verb," said Mr. Doyas, "which means to drag or creep or crawl. Used as a noun, it means a creeping, crawling thing, such as a snake."

THE FALL WEIGHT

Overcoat

Is about the first garment wanted and needed in this month. We have a magnificent stock of them. Prices range from $7.50 to $18. See them.

BEFORE BUYING YOUR FALL SUIT,

look up our Stein-Bloch, L. Adler and other makes of Rochester Clothing. These lines are confined to us. You'll not find them elsewhere. In buying a Suit of above-named makes you get a permanent shapeliness to your clothes that will not be impaired by wear or a wetting.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES

you want something that will look nice, but you don't want to overlook the durability of the material we have provided for you. We exercised great care in the selection of our Children's and Boys' Clothing. We only bought such as we can give you a guarantee on the wear. Money back if they don't.

DON'T FORGET THE HEAD AND FOOT.

We clothe both extremities with the best in the world. We need but say that our leaders in Hats are the John B. Stetson; in Shoes, the Hanan & Son and W. L. Douglass. Every pair guaranteed to wear well or money back.

The famous Gentry shows, composed of the largest herds of handsome dogs, intelligent ponies, comical monkeys and sagacious baby elephants ever seen, will soon visit this city. The exhibition this season is said to be nearly twice as large as on its former visits here, and it is now classed as the largest, as well as the best show of its kind in the world. This is the fifteenth year of the attraction's continued prosperity. The show will exhibit in this city, afternoon and night, Monday, Sept. 23rd.

Clearance Sale of SHOES

IS NOW ON AT BARKLEY'S!

Bigest sweep of Fine Summer Footwear in the history of Maysville. Not a pair reserved if low prices will sell them. We had rather close out what we have left of these goods at a sacrifice than carry 'em over till next spring. There's lots of warm weather still ahead. Fully two more months' wear may be had of low shoes. In this sale all profits go glimmering, and in many instances still deeper cuts have been made, original costs not having been considered. These quotations ought to make every foot in Maysville tingle for the want of a pair of these Shoes. Values are not fictitious, but former prices were readily obtained early in the season. Not many pairs are left in some lines, and if looking for a bargain with a big B you had better come quick before the lots are sold out.

Effect of San Francisco Strike on Markets In Honolulu.

SEXTO LOPEZ HAS STARTED A STIR.

Will Be Watched When He Reaches the Philippines Islands on Account of Insinuating Utterances During Sojourn in Hawaii.

Honolulu, Sept. 6, via San Francisco, Sept. 13.—The San Francisco strike threatens to cause serious trouble in Hawaii, by reason of the failure of San Francisco exporters to ship cargoes of provisions here. Local stocks of foodstuffs are becoming low. The larger Honolulu dealers are refusing to fill big orders and small stores cannot replace their stocks as they sell.

Sexto Lopez, Aguinaldo's agent, made quite a stir here by his utterances. He left by the Gaelic two days ago for the Orient and is understood to be going to Manilla where, judging by his remarks here, he is likely to be a troublesome factor.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham, of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store.
